

The Old Cemetery on Fort Canning, Singapore.

With a plan and four plates.

BY H. A. STALLWOOD.

This register of tombs in the Old Cemetery on Fort Canning was compiled by order of Government on the suggestion of Mr. C. B. Buckley who, in his "Anecdotal History of Singapore" mentions the loss of the register and suggests that a new one should be compiled.

No trace of the old register—for it must be assumed some such record existed—can be found, and it has therefore been considered desirable to make as complete a record as possible of the names of those old residents and visitors whose remains have found a resting place in this sacred spot.

The Cemetery stands on the slope of Fort Canning Hill, and is approached from the South by Fort Canning Road, through a gateway designed partly in the Gothic style of Architecture. It was opened in 1822 to take the place of the first Christian Cemetery which was situated close to where the flag-staff at Fort Canning now stands. It was closed when the Cemetery in Bukit Timah Road was opened in 1865.

The Southern half of the ground was allocated to Members of the Anglican community, and the Northern half to those of other Christian denominations, the dividing line being marked by a wall.

The grounds are kept in order by the Public Works Department, and, apart from any interest in the place as a graveyard, the beautiful shaded walk offers an attraction to those who appreciate quiet, contemplative surroundings.

To those who feel an interest in Singapore and its history, few places in the Settlement offer so much of interest. Many old residents lie buried here, and many tombstones testify to the number of lives sacrificed by members of the Civil Service, who were called to rest at a very early age, whilst taking their share in the administration of this Settlement, of which we are all so proud. The United Services also yield their quota of names, unfortunately, some well-known, if not illustrious, in the annals of their country.

The oldest tomb discovered is that dated 1821, erected to the memory of John C. Collingwood of the ship "Susan" A 30. It is surmised that this stone was taken from the old original Cemetery and re-erected here, as this Cemetery was not opened until 1822. The latest discovered is dated 1868, erected to the memory of Marie Dominica Scott, (B 229) a child of only two years of age, and the interment presumably took place after the Cemetery was closed in 1865, as the parents were possibly interred here.

Near the Southern gateway in the East side stands a monument erected by Captain the Hon : Arthur A. Cochran C. B. and Officers of H.M.S. "Niger," to the memory of their Comrades who fell in action, died of disease, or were drowned in the exercise of their duties :—

Other graves of interest are those of :—

A 13. Hon : F. L. C. Edward Presgrave, Civil Service, and the Rev. Robert Burn, late Chaplain of this Settlement. Both lie buried in the same vault.

A 26. Captain William Scott, who was Harbour Master here, and one of the most respected residents of his time. He was a cousin of Sir Walter Scott. Scott's Road is named after him, where he owned some property.

A 55. Stephen Hallpike, one of the earliest Settlers in Singapore.

A 63. Commander William Maitland, of H.M.S. "Spiteful" who died on board in the Roads at Singapore. A tablet to his memory is on the wall of the Cathedral.

A 134 The Hon : Charles Robert Lindsay, second son of the late Earl of Balcarres.

A 191. James Henry Leopold Grey, son of the late Hon : Edward Grey, late Bishop of Hereford.

A 216. Thomas Moncrieff, fifth son of the late James Wellwood Moncrieff, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of Scotland.

B 6. Sir Jozé D'Almeida Carvalho E'Silva, Portuguese Consul-General in the Straits Settlements, one of the most prominent of the old Singapore pioneers. He was knighted by the Queen of Portugal in 1842 on his appointment as Consul-General. His portrait is in Raffles Library.

B 14. George Doungold Coleman, Superintendent of Public Works. He was responsible for laying out many of the main roads, and designed the first St. Andrew's Church. Coleman Street and Coleman Bridge are named after him.

A. 163. Captain Leslie, also Superintendent of Public Works in this Settlement.

C. 80. John Colin Campbell, second son of the late Sir Guy Campbell, Bart ; who died on board H. M. S. "Bittern."

A. 264. Monument erected by the Captain, Officers and Ships' Company of H. M. S. "Spartan."

The tombs are mostly constructed of brickwork, plastered, and can boast of no architectural beauty. Many have fallen into disrepair ; others are fast decaying and tumbling down. In many cases the inscriptions are illegible, though cut in granite, as they have been left unattended, and have had to give way to time and weather. The inscriptions cut in marble have stood well and can be very easily deciphered.

Every care was taken in compiling the register, which was a work of some difficulty, and, though errors may have crept in, it will be found, on the whole, to be fairly complete.

For the translation of the inscriptions on the tombs of Chinese residents who lie buried here, I am indebted to the Hon'ble C. J. Saunders, Secretary for Chinese Affairs, who has kindly supplied me with the following notes:—

- “The inscriptions on the Chinese tombs were carefully deciphered as far as possible by Mr. Yung Sz Meng, my clerk and interpreter, who copied the inscriptions in Chinese. He has also helped me in transliteration and translation. In cases in which the grave does not give the birthplace or place of origin of the deceased, it has been assumed that he was a Tiechui.”
- “The Christian names gave some difficulty and I am indebted to Mr. Go Lai Quee, of the Supreme Court, for interpreting many of them. In graves B. 24, 25, 67 and 101, I have had to content myself with giving the Chinese sounds.”
- “The gravestones, as is customary with the Chinese, often mention the names of those who erected the stone: it has thus been possible to give the information as to the relatives of the deceased which is found in column 3.”
- “The names of prefectures and districts in China are given in Romanised characters: the names of smaller localities are given in Chinese characters. Where it is possible and necessary, the tribe ('bangsa') of the deceased is given in brackets.”
- “No English-Chinese calendar is available for the years before 1834, and for years up to 1833 the month and the day are therefore given according to Chinese reckoning. Where the year of an event is alone given, or where the event happened in the 11th moon and no day is given, it is impossible to say in which of two years according to Western reckoning the event happened. The Chinese year is often given not by the year of the Emperor's reign, but merely by the characters of the 60 years cycle, and in a few cases (e.g. B. 34) in the absence of evidence as to the deceased's age at death, it would be impossible to say whether he died e.g. in 1798 or 1858, if we did not know that at the former date the Cemetery was not open. In a few cases the graves give dates according to the Western calendar.”
- “Most of the graves in Section B., two of the graves in Section D. and one grave in Section C. had at the top four Chinese characters meaning 'May Eternal Light shine on him (or her)' with a cross or a cross in a circle in the middle of the inscription.”

The accompanying plan shows all tombs and graves, but those without inscriptions, or with illegible ones, have been omitted from the following list. This accounts for the gaps in the consecutive numbering.

80 THE OLD CEMETERY ON FORT CANNING, SINGAPORE.

It is hoped that on the publication and distribution of this register descendants and relatives of those buried in the Cemetery will come forward and assist in the repair of the ruined tombs and thus prevent the total decay and destruction of the monuments which form so interesting a link with the past.
